SECURITY MANAGEMENT PROTECTS DATA AND HELPS ENSURE COMPLIANCE

BUSINESS CHALLENGE

Protecting information sources while also enabling user access is a complex process. The more data sources an organization has, the more important it is to create a safe and effective mechanism for identifying each user, providing full access to authorized data sources with only one authentication, and managing the policies and record keeping required by legislation and best business practices.

As organizations grow, these relationships become complex, and multiple identities emerge across the enterprise, including relationships with those outside the company. Each group generates greater need to manage identity and authorization, and each group has its own unique security requirements.

Too often, the management of these identities takes place in company silos, leading to fragmented and inconsistent security information. Without a single view of the identity and authorization of each user, a company is at risk for data compromise.

By implementing the CA Security Management solution, Rolta helps you protect your business from threats while simplifying your security processes.
